Welcome to your Summer 2017 Activity Guide!
Our theme this summer is “Get Your Play On!” in conjunction with The National Recreation & Park Association’s annual campaign to celebrate July as National Parks and Recreation Month! As you can tell from our cover, kids already know how to do this well - and we adults can still learn!

But first, let's roll up our sleeves (yes, work can be playful, too!) and help clean up our parks for an Earth Day Celebration, April 22. It's not too late to catch the volunteer spirit and join us. Contact Isaac Palmer, at 262-349-5801 if you can lend a hand or to sign up for another volunteer project listed on page 38.

The Les Paul Performance Center is the stage for Monday Night Movies in the Park, Tribute Tuesday concerts, as well as the time honored tradition of Thursday night Civic Band concerts. See pages 5 & 7 for all the exciting details.

Playground programs will be hopping and new sites have been added. Take advantage of the opportunity to keep the kids engaged with others outdoors this summer. This information starts on page 19.

Swim lessons rank high in life long skills. Sign your kids up to make sure they learn this valuable skill. Info starts on page 12.

Take advantage of all that Waukesha Parks, Recreation & Forestry has to offer. Try a fitness class, learn how to play a new sport, and join us for the Independence Day Celebrations - this year we are honoring our military and first responders, see page 3!

Ready, set, go…Waukesha kids of all ages … “Get Your Play On!”

Sincerely, Shawn Reilly, Mayor, City of Waukesha

Frame Park / Rotary Grounds
1150 Baxter St., Waukesha, WI
Once again it’s time to give an update on the Emerald Ash Borer as it pertains to Wisconsin and especially in the Waukesha community. The Emerald Ash Borer (EAB) is an exotic boring insect from Asia which we have been hearing reports about for the past 10 or so years. These reports have been telling us that this pest is coming, that it is spreading throughout the country and the state and that with time we will be seeing the effects of this invasive insect. EAB has spread to 43 counties in our state and their numbers are increasing in the communities in which they have been found. As far as our community of Waukesha I can tell you that EAB is here and is effecting our ash trees right now. Just take a walk around in your neighborhood and you will not have to go very far to see ash trees with symptoms of EAB.

First, what does an ash tree look like. In winter look for the opposite branching pattern and stout twigs of ash. Small branches grow off larger branches opposite one another. Likewise, buds and leaf scars are opposite one another on twigs. White and green ashes, which are the two most common ash in our area, have thick, diamond-patterned bark.

Second, what symptoms does an ash tree show once it is infested with the borer. In the winter the main symptom that we use to identify this pest is woodpecker damage to the tree. Woodpeckers love to peck at trees infested with these insects which are just underneath the bark. Ash trees will then show signs of “flecking” which are strips of bark that are pulled off the tree by the woodpeckers in search of the insect. This occurs mainly in the upper canopy where the insect prefers to first enter the tree. Eventually “flecking” will be seen throughout the tree and even on the truck. Shallow holes may also be present. Other symptoms of an ash tree infested with EAB include crown die-back (dead tips of the branches), Epicormic branching (sprouts or suckers growing from the trunk) and bark splits caused by the insect feeding just underneath the bark.

The good news is that city ash trees have been under a treatment program for the past seven years and that 67% of our 5,233 ash trees are protected. The remaining city ash trees that are not protected are under a removal program. This means that remaining city ash trees will be removed in a four to five year period. Ash trees which are showing symptoms stated above will be targeted first. Removals are occurring throughout all areas of the city as the borer activity is widespread. Protected trees will be retreated to maintain a healthy ash population.

What should you do with your ash trees? To treat or not to treat is the question. If you have an ash tree and it has yet to show symptoms of the emerald ash borer and you value this tree in your landscape you may consider treatment. Treatments should be repeated every 2 to 3 years to maintain protection from the insect. Inspection of the tree by a certified arborist is a must before treatment is considered. Not all ash trees infested with the borer will have the symptoms stated above. Treatment of healthy ash trees is very effective, however, successful protection of ash trees which already have the borer will depend on the percentage of the infestation as well as the overall health of the tree. Removal of the tree is also an option and the cost and overall impact of each should be considered. One thing to consider is that the cost of removing a dead tree is usually more expensive and is much more dangerous than the removal of a live tree. It is not recommended to wait until your tree is completely dead before having it removed. To help you through this decision to treat or not to treat you can go to the following websites which offer sound advice to help you through this process.

American Red Cross “Learn to Swim” Program
American Red Cross certified Water Safety Instructors teach swimming skills. Children often need to repeat certain levels before advancing on to the next level.

Parent observation locations:
• Outside the fence at the outdoor pools
• On the balcony at Carroll University

Depending on the parent’s comfort level, it is not necessary to come in the pool area on the first day of class. Throughout the session, parents/guardians are encouraged to speak with their child’s instructor after class to check on the progress of their child. Students should arrive five minutes prior to the scheduled start of class.

Lesson Entrance:
• Horeb – South Gate
• Buchner – Main Entrance
• Carroll University – Barstow Entrance

Pool Requirements:
1. Participants should familiarize themselves with the pool rules as posted before entering the water.

New to the swim instruction program?
Has it been a few years since the last lesson? A Swim Pretest is an opportunity for:
• One-on-one skill screening
• Level placement
• Introducing yourself and your child to the facility.

Please call the Parks & Recreation office (262)524-3737 between the hours of 8:00 am and 4:30 pm, Monday-Friday to have your name placed on the list for the pre-test. Participants are taken on a first come, first served basis; however, if we have an idea of how many will be in attendance, staff can be scheduled accordingly to serve you better.

• Monday, June 12 / Horeb Pool / 11:00 am
• Tuesday, June 13 / Buchner Pool / 5:15 pm

Important: Please place your child in the proper swim level by referring to their report card, participating in pretest or by reading the swim level descriptions on the next page carefully. If you place your child inappropriately, we cannot guarantee placement in the same time slot as we are trying to maintain low student ratios and high quality instruction.
